d. Duties

Study of the USSR. OHODERA received abundant information from the Latvian and Estonian General Staff Intelligence Services. He considers this to have been a most successful assignment. There is no doubt that it was during those years that he made basic contact with some of his most important war-time sources.

He made a monthly trip to Tallinn and travelled in Europe as follows: Several times to Berlin; once to Paris; once to Prague; once to Budapest; several times to Warsaw; Wilno; once to Danzig. The purpose of these trips was to study political conditions. OHODERA contacted White Russian autonomists in Wilno, Danzig, Prague. He was in touch with ZARCHARKO, last premier of the Republic of White Russia in Prague, and with ADAMOWITZ, secret society chief in Danzig. He denies having participated in the plot with which those two men were connected.

OHODERA was succeeded by Major TAKATSUKI Tamotsu who was subsequently transferred to the North China Expeditionary Forces and killed by terrorists in 1940.
